Spotlight Business of the Month
Scenic Regional Library-
Warrenton Branch
Branch Manager-
Robin Schaefferkoetter

My name is Robin Schaefferkoetter. I am a retired teacher, 1st, 2nd, and 8th grade Reading. Upon my retirement from education in 2018, I became employed by Scenic Regional Library in Owensville as the branch manager. My children have moved away and my parents have passed away, so in 2022 I transferred to the Warrenton branch as their manager and have since moved this direction. It's an easy transition from a school to a building full of books.

The library of today is different from the library I grew up in. Today we circulate cake pans, fishing poles, telescopes, microscopes, binoculars, ukuleles, hotspots, Chromebooks, Stem Kits, and Memory Kits. We offer Notary and Passport services. Our Bookmobile is no more, but Storytime lives on from my youth. We offer programs for children, teens, and adults. Take-a-Ticket is once a month and meets the needs of those needing assistance with technology. No appointment is necessary, just bring the device you need help with on the day the library trainer is at the branch. We have 2 book clubs that can be joined. On the 1st, 3rd, and 5th Thursday of each month, the MO Highway Patrol offers driving exams in the meeting room. Bob Dylan once wrote, the times they are a changin'. This is especially true in libraries.

This Week in Chamber

Our 2023 Annual Banquet Celebrating 100 Years of the Warrenton Area Chamber of Commerce was January 13th. We had a record turnout, and everyone's generosity has again blown us away! Thank you to everyone who supports our Chamber. The Banquet's proceeds will go to fund Chamber Scholarships for the Class of 2023.

Congratulations to our Award Winners
Educator of the Year- Diane Miederhoff
Person of the Year- Tim Flake

Monday, January 16th we celebrated with Social House 227 at their Ribbon Cutting Ceremony

5 Skills The Next Generation Will Need For Success

By Sara Burkhard

Being successful looks different to everyone. It comes in all shapes and sizes, but one thing that most people can agree on is that it includes feeling content and secure. One of the ways to offer this security is by opening as many doors to opportunity as possible by learning valuable life skills.

So, how will the next generation be able to do that? While trends come and go, and the economy and culture can change, there are some skills that every person will need to have to get ahead.

1. Critical thinking

Being able to think for yourself is a key skill at a time where the concept of career and the workplace is changing. Critical thinking is clearly self-directed and self-disciplined, so you will need to be able to think for yourself in a realistic and meaningful way.

“Education is not the learning of facts, but the training of the mind to think.” – Albert Einstein

This generation is going to need to go beyond taking notes and remembering information for important exams. They will need education teaching them to think for themselves and solve problems in real-time. Developing this ability early on will only stand to benefit today’s students and tomorrow’s leaders.

2. Adaptability

Navigating emerging technologies is something most students and professionals need to do in their daily lives. While this can ultimately make life easier, it often comes with new circumstances. A fine example of this is how several companies use modern technology to further their global presence. This results in top-tier companies encouraging their employees to work remotely and take full advantage of the Digital Age.

Working directly with an employee who lives in a different time zone could be just one of many adjustments the next generation will experience in their regular work culture. The next generations will need to be able to adapt or they could be left behind.

3. Excellent communication skills

Good communication skills are important, both in person and online. The next generation is going to need to excel in these and every now and again this will include having to lead the conversation. As mentioned above, there might be special circumstances to navigate, such as key members of a team who live in different locations.

This is only one of the many scenarios that might mean people will need to be multifaceted and learn how to communicate using new mediums. And with most workplaces using tools like Slack or Skype to communicate within their teams, written communication is a major point. Reading comprehension and writing skills have become crucial skills for the modern student and employee.

4. Cultural understanding

A deeper cultural understanding can lead to more positive interactions, better collaboration, and truly diverse conversations. Given that Generation Z is often stated as one of the most diverse generations to date, there will be a wider variety of voices and perspectives in the future workplace.

Cultural understanding has been a key part of progress in most cultures. With international business, an important aspect of modern life, large companies in top industries are embracing and teaching this to their employees. Companies like Google, Novartis, and Coca-Cola are well-known for their diversity initiatives.

Since companies like these are often looked to as tastemakers, it’s clear that by the time the next few generations are entering the workforce, this concept will be commonplace within most companies in the relevant industries.

5. Initiative and drive

While competition is a normal part of achieving success in life, the world is more connected now than ever so many will be competing on a much more global stage than previous generations might have. You have to consider the fact that this will mean that students will need to strive to compete with students from their own country along with several others.

Having the initiative and drive to compete will be an important element in navigating certain aspects of life, especially when it comes to career and education opportunities.
