KNOCK OUT THOSE KNOCKOUT NERVES

"It's not giving the speech that terrifies me," said a colleague recently. "It's all that anxiety beforehand... those moments, days or weeks before, when I'm planning and preparing... that makes me feel sick to my stomach!"

He's not the first or only speaker who suffers from knock-out nerves before giving a speech. Pre-speech anxiety comes in many forms: procrastination, sleeplessness, forgetfulness, irritability, queasiness... there are many more symptoms. They might be due to other causes, but they're very well known to many speakers, from the tentative beginner to the seasoned pro. Why does getting up in front of a bunch of strangers make us feel so scared? And what can we do to prevent it?

All speakers feel nervous before beginning to speak, for their own personal reasons. Yours are different from mine and from everyone else's. They have to do with our confidence (or lack of it) in our own abilities, or our feelings of self-worth and acceptance in the world. Do we feel competent and capable? Prepared and knowledgeable? Will we be listened to and taken seriously, feel appreciated and admired, etc? You can come up with your own additions to this list. But it's important to remember that, whether this is your first speech or your 50th, all speakers suffer from similar feelings to some degree every time they speak. The difference is how they've learned to handle them.

To overcome pre-performance anxiety and feel a lot more comfortable about giving your next speech, try these techniques:

1) Know your material. When you're absolutely confident about your subject, you'll feel much less anxious about presenting it to your audience. Plan ahead. Visualize any questions you might be asked and prepare answers for them. Believe strongly in the value of your topic. What you have to say is important. It matters! Your goal is to communicate this value with enthusiasm. If you believe that what you're saying is worth listening to, your audience will, too. You'll be so busy expressing your passionate belief, you'll never think about being nervous.

2) Focus on making your message land. If you're focusing on yourself...how you feel, how you look, whether or not you're going to stutter, stumble, or forget what to say... of course you'll be nervous! Who wouldn't be? It's not your job to concentrate on all your shortcomings! Your job is to give the audience a gift, the gift of your knowledge. In other words, your job is to focus on your audience, not on yourself! It's not about you. It's all about them! Keep that in the forefront of your mind when you're planning, preparing, rehearsing, and giving your speech. It's about giving them your gift! When you're focusing on them, you won't have time to think about yourself and you won't be nervous.

3) Use confidence-building techniques. It's normal to have pre-speech jitters. They're a sign that your adrenaline is flowing, you're on your toes, you're highly functioning, and all your instincts are 'go'. However, sometimes all that adrenaline feels a little overwhelming. Many speakers employ favorite techniques to feel calm, cool, and competent. One technique is to take a few deep breaths just before you speak and say to yourself your favorite confidence-giving mantra.

Mine is, "Okay, Marion, permit yourself to be delightful!" It makes me smile and feel good about myself. A couple of others are, "I am unique! What I have to say is important! No one can say it like me!" Or, "I am the best Marion Claire that there could ever be! I have a special gift to give this audience!" Create your own mantra, one that makes you feel powerful and ready to give your gift.

Use these techniques (and others, just ask me!) to help you knock out those pre-speech jitters. You'll be amazed at how confident you'll feel!

~Marion Claire

GOLFING FOR GREEN

MARCH 19TH, 2020

All Proceeds
Benefitting
EMMAUS

WHAT IS EMMAUS? WHY TOP GOLF?

At Emmaus, we know that people with developmental disabilities want to be independent. In order to do that, they need a home and a community that embraces their unique abilities. The problem is: it's hard to live without support, which makes them feel frustrated, excluded, and powerless. We believe our clients deserve the resources they need to live independently. We understand it's tough to manage life alone, which is why for 125 years, as a faith-based organization, we have provided high-quality services, caring for the whole person for their whole life.

With Emmaus standing behind them, the people we support can stop worrying about losing control of their life and instead create their own story. We hope that you will consider supporting the stories of the nearly 300 adults living with developmental disabilities throughout the St. Louis area Emmaus serves through a variety of supportive care programs.

We hope that you will support Emmaus: Golfing for Green by participating as an event sponsor! Emmaus: Golfing for Green will be held on Thursday, March 19th, 2020 at Top Golf located in Chesterfield, Missouri. This event will be a celebration of people we support coming together with those who continue to give in various ways.

Golfing for Green will keep the St. Patrick's Day celebration going by featuring three hours of golf, food and beverage, a silent auction, prizes for our top golfers, and who knows - maybe even a pot of gold! Even if you can't golf, that's okay! Top Golf is easy for everyone to be included, which is why it is a great fit for Emmaus.

Your participation guarantees your business exposure to an attentive, higher socioeconomic audience, with brand visibility and promotional opportunities, as well as a chance to support a St. Louis based nonprofit that serves a unique population in our community.

We hope you will be able to join us in supporting Emmaus: Golfing for Green by sponsoring or donating a product(s) for our silent auction. For additional questions or to secure your sponsorship, return the attached form or contact Mackenzie Barber at just@mackenzie@emmaushomes.org or 636-515-8822.

Thank you for your consideration, and we hope to see you at Top Golf!

WHAT IS TOP GOLF?

No golfing ability? No problem! Topgolf is a game that anyone can play (and win). Score points by hitting micro-chipped golf balls at giant dartboard-like targets on an outfield. The closer you get your ball to the center or 'bullseye' and the further the distance, the more points earned.

"A good friend is like a four leaf clover, hard to find and lucky to have"
- Irish Proverb
At Emmaus, we are so glad to have friends like you!

MISSOURI MANUFACTURING TECHNICIAN I CERTIFICATE

Credentials that may be earned include:

CRITICAL PRODUCTION FUNCTIONS COVERED BY MSSC COURSES AND ASSESSMENTS:

The Manufacturing Skill Standards Council (MSSC) credentialing system leading to a CPT covers the four critical production functions, as defined by MSSC's industry-led, nationally validated skills standards, common to all sectors of manufacturing: Safety, Quality & Continuous Improvement, Manufacturing Processes & Production, and Maintenance Awareness. Each area is addressed with a separate assessment. MSSC training and assessments are organized around those four modules. An individual can earn a "Certificate" if they pass one or more assessments. However, they must pass all four assessments to earn the full "CPT" certification. MSSC strongly recommends that individuals be at the 9th grade level of math and 10th grade level of English before attempting MSSC courses and assessments.

The two critical functions and their related key activities are described below:

SAFETY

1. Work in a Safe and Productive Manufacturing Workplace
2. Perform safety and environmental inspections
3. Perform emergency drills and participate in emergency teams
4. Identify unsafe conditions and take corrective action
5. Provide safety orientation for all employees
6. Train personnel to use equipment safely
7. Suggest processes and procedures that support safety of work environment
8. Fulfill safety and health requirements for maintenance, installation, and repair
9. Monitor safe equipment and operator performance
10. Utilize effective, safety-enhancing workplace practices

QUALITY PRACTICES & MEASUREMENT

1. Participate in periodic internal quality audit activities
2. Check calibration of gages and other data collection equipment
3. Suggest continuous improvements
4. Inspect materials and product/process at all stages to ensure they meet specifications
5. Document the results of quality tests
6. Communicate quality problems.
7. Take corrective actions to restore or maintain quality
8. Record process outcomes and trends
9. Identify fundamentals of blueprint reading
10. Use common measurement systems and precision measurement tools

NOTE: MSSC assesses core understanding of the key work activities and core technical knowledge and skills needed in high-performance manufacturing, as defined by MSSC Production Skill Standards. Given online, MSSC Assessments also help measure basic computer, problem-solving and analytical skills and one's ability to apply knowledge to specific situations identified in the assessments. There are no experiential or hands-on requirements for MSSC certification as it is expected that individual employers will determine those requirements based upon their own specific needs. MSSC does not require that individuals take MSSC courses prior to testing.
